FCC Commissioner Jessica Rosenworcel: The Digital and Mobile Future

Time: 4:30pm

Jessica Rosenworcel was nominated in 2012 by President Obama as one of the five Commissioners of the Federal Communications Commission, the primary U.S. government authority for the communications, media, and information industries. In this "fireside chat" moderated by Wharton professor Kevin Werbach, she will discuss important initiatives shaping technology and entrepreneurial opportunities, such wireless innovation, open Internet protections, and education technology.

RSVP here.