ACS Supreme Court Review

Time: 12:00pm - 1:30pm

Location: Silverman 240B

Join the American Constitution Society for a panel discussion of the previous Supreme Court term. Can religious employers still claim religious exemptions in providing contraception through insurance? What are the repercussions of the dead-lock in United States v. Texas for undocumented children? How will public officials now be prosecuted for corruption? How do we now address the underrepresentation of urban areas in elections? What kind of scientific evidence will courts now consider in examining barriers for women seeking abortions? Our panel of diverse experts will answer these and other questions, providing an inside look on the third branch of government.
