

Spring 2019

Completing its fifth year, the Leo Model Foundation Government Service & Public Affairs Initiative at Penn Law continues to prepare students to be leaders in government and policy making. Here are highlights from the past semester.

Preparing for Public Leadership and Government Service at Penn Law

Watch our video of how Penn Law helps prepare students to become leaders in government and public affairs.

Spring D.C. Alumni and Student Dinner

Penn Law alumni discussed their advocacy efforts in the areas of civil rights, criminal justice, and environmental justice.

Spotlighting career opportunities

Our Career Conversations series highlights government career possibilities for Penn Law students.

Meet our 2019 Summer Fellows

The Leo Model Foundation Government & Public Affairs Initiative supports students in legal internships with federal, state, and local government agencies.

Journal of Law and Public Affairs

JLPA, Penn Law's new student-edited journal features research by renowned scholars and practitioners responding to pressing policy issues.

Richard Cordray Visits Penn Law

The Former CFPB Director shared his consumer protection expertise and government service experience with the community.

3501 Sansom Street, Philadelphia, PA 19104 (map)
215.898.7483

Penn Law alumnus elected mayor of Dallas, TX

After serving in the Texas House of Representatives for nine years, Eric Johnson L'05 has now been elected as Mayor.

Ryan McMenemy L'17 provides legal services to New York veterans

Through a postgraduate fellowship, McMenemy works with veterans at the Volunteers Lawyers Project.

Prof. Blackhawk authors groundbreaking article on Indian law in Harvard Law Review

The article argues for centering Indian law in U.S. constitutional law framework.

Improving Regulatory Decisions

Leading business, law, and government professionals study regulation in a cutting-edge executive education course.