Hannah Victor Nu’17 L’18 Combines Law and Nursing Degrees

Now in the Air Force, Victor remains the first and only person to have completed the BSN/JD program at Penn

Read the full article

The Intersection of the Law and Urban Spatial Analytics

Max Masuda-Farkas L’22, MUSA’22 shares how the Wharton Boot Camp afforded him the opportunity to forge his own path

Tyler Burrell L’21 Pursues Politics Certificate at Fels

Called to help his community, this student found his path in public service through cross-disciplinary opportunities at the Law School
Employment Equity and International Women's Day
An all-female panel of distinguished guests discuss how to eliminate barriers and provide equitable opportunities

Penn's Graduate School of Education (GSE) Top Ranked by U.S. News
The GSE is the sister school to the Law School's JD/MSEd, a graduate joint degree that trains students to become leaders in educational law across the public and private sectors

Promoting the Intersection of Law and History
Prof. Karen Tani leads the Legal History Consortium with the goal of furthering interdisciplinary scholarship

Professor Sarin Appointed to Biden Administration
Sarin joins the Treasury Department as Deputy Assistant Secretary for Economic Policy

Cross-Disciplinary Innovation
How cross-disciplinary training makes better lawyers
Watch Video →
Convening Experts in Law, Sociology, and Civil Rights

This year’s Sadie T.M. Alexander Conference examined the roots of mass incarceration and the prison abolition movement.

“A Conversation with Stacey Abrams”

Moderated by Ben Jealous, University of Pennsylvania Carey Law School Distinguished Visiting Fellow and former NAACP leader, they discussed topics from gerrymandering to romance novels in a lively discussion.