The Sparer Symposium commemorates the life and work of the late Edward V. Sparer, Professor of Law and Social Policy. The 37th annual Edward V. Sparer Symposium will focus on reparations: legal and community activists' struggle to get accountability for past crimes and enduring legacies of harm. The Reparations movements, both historical and modern, reflect a growing consciousness that today's most powerful nations and institutions were constructed through the commission of grave and inhumane crimes. We will examine what kinds of harm get redress, who should be held accountable, and how to confront a legal system that may be ill-equipped to deal with foundational crimes against humanity. Join us in exploring the many facets of reparations through film and discussion and add your voice to this conversation.
