Journal of Law & Innovation

presents

Rethinking Innovation Policy:
The Role of the State
Government policy and technological innovation are inextricably intertwined. From the advent of the internet to advances in modern fintech, the state has played a meaningful but underexplored role. At its third annual symposium, occurring on January 24, the Journal of Law & Innovation (JLI) seeks to explore the mechanisms through which the state has attempted to spur or hinder such innovations. JLI asks: in which sectors should policy and regulation play an active role? Is government involvement in fostering innovation always desirable? Tackling these questions will enable policymakers to begin to rethink the role of the state in innovation policy.

Speakers

Shane Greenstein
Harvard Business School

Roger Noll
Stanford University

Gus Hurwitz
Nebraska College of Law

Hilary Allen
American University Washington College of Law

Camilla Alexandra Hrdy
University of Akron School of Law

Tal Zarsky
University of Haifa Law

Commentators

Janet Abbate
Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University

Herbert Hovenkamp
University of Pennsylvania

David Zaring
The Wharton School

Tom Baker
University of Pennsylvania Law School

Michael Abramowicz
The George Washington University School of Law

Katherine Strandburg
New York University School of Law
Journal of Law & Innovation

presents

Rethinking Innovation Policy:
The Role of the State
Agenda

9:00-9:30am
Registration
Breakfast available

9:30-9:45am
Opening Remarks
Saba Bajwa
Michael Buchwald
Christopher Yoo

9:45-10:45am
Inconvenient Truths About the Commercialization of the Internet
Presenter: Shane Greenstein
Commentator: Janet Abbate

10:45-11:45am
Regulation as Partnership
Presenter: Gus Hurwitz
Commentator: David Zaring

11:45am-1:00pm
Lunch

1:00-2:00pm
How Regulation is Grappling with Fintech
Presenter: Hillary Allen
Commentator: Tom Baker

2:00-3:00pm
Re-Visiting the Privacy/ Innovation Conundrum
Presenter: Tal Zarsky
Commentators: Katherine Strandburg & Yafit Lev-Aretz

3:00-3:15pm
Afternoon Break

3:15-4:15pm
Innovation or Jobs? An Inconvenient Truth About Public Financing for "Innovation"
Presenter: Camilla Alexandra Hrdy
Commentator: Michael Abramowicz

4:15-5:15pm
Policy Interventions in Markets Involving Complex Technologies
Presenter: Roger Noll
Commentator: Herbert Hovenkamp

5:15-5:30pm
Closing Remarks
Christopher Yoo
Journal of Law & Innovation presents

Rethinking Innovation Policy: The Role of the State
Speakers

Take a look at our speakers scheduled for this event

Janet Abbate
Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University

Michael Abramowicz
The George Washington University School of Law

Hilary Allen
American University Washington College of Law

Tom Baker
University of Pennsylvania Law School

Shane Greenstein
Harvard Business School

Herbert Hovenkamp
University of Pennsylvania

Camilla Alexandra Hrdy
University of Akron School of Law

Gus Hurwitz
Nebraska College of Law

Yafit Lev-Aretz
Zicklin School of Business, Baruch College, City University of New York

Roger Noll
Stanford University
Journal of Law & Innovation

presents

Rethinking Innovation Policy: The Role of the State
How Regulation is Grappling with Fintech
Hilary Allen
American University Washington College of Law

Inconvenient Truths About the Commercialization of the Internet
Shane Greenstein
Harvard Business School

Innovation or Jobs? An Inconvenient Truth About Public Financing for Innovation
Camilla Alexandra Hrdy
University of Akron School of Law

Regulation as Partnership
Gus Hurwitz
Nebraska College of Law

Policy Interventions in Markets Involving Complex Technologies
Roger Noll
Stanford University

Re-visiting the Privacy/Innovation Conundrum
Tal Zarsky
University of Haifa Law