Police Violence and Mass Incarceration at the Intersections of Identity: A Conversation with Andrea Ritchie

Time: 4:30pm - 6:00pm

Ritchie's new book Invisible No More: Police Violence Against Black Women and Women of Color, examines how Black women, Indigenous women, and women of color experience the twin epidemics of police violence and mass incarceration, documenting the evolution of movements centering women's experiences of policing and demanding a radical rethinking of our visions of safety—and the means we devote to achieving it.

Dorothy Roberts, George A. Weiss University Professor of Law and Sociology and the Raymond Pace and Sadie Tanner Mossell Alexander Professor of Civil Rights will lead a broad-ranging discussion with Andrea Ritchie, activist, attorney, and scholar. Ritchie's new book Invisible No More: Police Violence Against Black Women and Women of Color, examines how Black women, Indigenous women, and women of color experience the twin epidemics of police violence and mass incarceration, documenting the evolution of movements centering women's experiences of policing and demanding a radical rethinking of our visions of safety—and the means we devote to achieving it. Ritchie is also a member of the Movement for Black Lives Policy Table. Come hear about the Movement for Black Lives, prison abolition, and ending police violence, with an emphasis on the experiences of Black women and women of color. Book signing with Ritchie will follow.

This program has been approved for 1.5 substantive CLE credits for Pennsylvania lawyers. CLE credit may be available in other jurisdictions as well. Attendees seeking CLE credit should bring separate payment in the amount of $60.00 ($60.00 public interest/non-profit attorneys) cash or check made payable to The Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania.

The event itself is free of charge and open to the public.
