

October 25, 2018

Was Pennoyer Correct? The Future of Personal Jurisdiction in the Wake of Bristol-Myers

Contact Info:

Louis Capozzi, capozzil@pennlaw.upenn.edu

Time: 12:00pm

Location: Gittis 1

Please join the Penn Law Federalist Society on Thursday, October 25, at noon, for a debate on the future of personal jurisdiction in the wake of the Supreme Court's decision in Bristol-Myers Squibb (2017). Arguing for the proposition is Professor Stephen Sachs. After graduating from Yale Law School in 2007, Professor Sachs clerked for Judge Stephen Williams (D.C. Circuit) and Chief Justice John Roberts on the United States Supreme Court. Professor Tobias Wolff will respond to Professor Sachs's argument. The event will take place in Gittis 1 and food from Chick-fil-a will be served.

Feedback