ACS and the National Security Society invite you to attend Professor Richard Abel's talk on the rule of law in post-9/11 America, specifically the handling of detainees at Guantanamo Bay and terrorism prosecutions under the Trump Administration. Professor Abel is visiting us from UCLA Law. His work analyzes modern day terrorism prosecutions with a focus on rectifying past harms like Abu Ghraib and demands to improve conditions at Guantanamo Bay by detainees. The talk will be based off his two recent books, Law's Trials and Law's Wars.
