COVID Vaccines for Developing Countries

Thursday, March 11, 2021
1:00-2:00pm ET
As wealthy countries overcome their own hurdles to counter the COVID-19 pandemic, questions arise over how the rest of the world is faring. Facing challenges from innovation policy, infrastructure and vaccine nationalism, developing countries are at risk of being left behind. This panel discussion endeavors to bring renewed focus to the solutions underway that aim to promote global public health and equitable access.
