A well-known women's disability rights leader (profiled in the NYT) who lost her leg in a rocket attack will also join us from Kabul to share her reaction to the crisis in Afghanistan.

Due to the importance of the engagement, this class will be open to all Penn Law students interested in the Forum on Women's Leadership at Time of Crisis. Due to the security risks involved, this part of the conversation will not be recorded. No cameras and social media will be allowed. Penn Law students who are not enrolled in the class are invited to join in person or
