

Video Tape Index
Interview with Professor Chang-Muy
October 26, 2001

Introduction by Crystal Fu	00
Family and Childhood
Birth in Havana, Cuba	19
Chang-Muy's parents' backgrounds	29
His family's immigration from Cuba to U.S.	58
Becoming legal permanent residents	73
Parents' occupations	107
Siblings/Father's prior marriage	144
Catholic education	196
Nephew unharmed by September 11, 2001 attacks	210
First thoughts in English	245
Serving as interpreter for his parents	268
The Sixties	304
Impact of his sexual orientation/Coming out of the closet	330
Compromise of his cultural, ethnic, or sexual identity	416
Education
Catholic schools	507
Universities attended	567
Major in college	577
Reason for major in Literature and minor in Education	606
Masters in Literature at Georgetown/Ph.D. in Literature at University of Miami	630

Reasons for attending law school	654
How he met his Partner	695
How he ended up at Community Legal Services in Philadelphia	728
Attending a southern university as a person of color in the Seventies	754
Scarcity of Latinos and Asian Americans on campus	845
Inability to come out of the closet during college	864
Mentors at Loyola University	887
Reasons for choosing Antioch School of Law	925
Strong network of friends in law school	997
Schizophrenic nature of Jesuit priests	1071
How major in English helped in law school	1134
Benefits of attending a progressive law school	1160
Impact of public interest law school on career choice	1217
Professional Life	1345
Reginald Heber Smith Fellowship/Community Legal Services in Philadelphia	1347
Clinical lecturer at Penn Law	1457
Working for the UNHCR and WHO	1477
Adoption of daughter	1517
Deanship at Swarthmore College	1545
Return to Penn as adjunct professor	1584
Reasons for advocacy of immigrants' rights	1623
Education as a tool for social change	1639
Experience of teaching at the Penn School of Social Welfare	1760

Impact of law school on career and life

1902

The future: the aftermath of the September 11 terrorist attacks

1979