Natural Law and Interfaith Relations: a Jewish, Christian, and Muslim Tr... https://www.eventbrite.com/e/natural-law-and-interfaith-relations-a-jewi...
Collegium Institute
Organizer of Natural Law and Interfaith Relations: a Jewish, Christian, and Muslim Triology

The Collegium Institute is an independent scholarly foundation devoted to fostering the Catholic intellectual tradition, and the liberal tradition of humane studies more broadly, within the University of Pennsylvania community. It was founded in 2013 by faculty, students, alumni, and friends of Penn.

The institute's name, collegium, serves as a reminder that the pursuit of knowledge, which is the principal object of all universities, is a communal enterprise. Its flourishing depends upon its members working together to cultivate certain virtues of mind and character, such as humility, trust, honesty, justice, and the love of truth. By witnessing to these enduring virtues, the Collegium Institute aims to serve contemporary academia and become a vibrant center of learning within it.

Natural Law and Interfaith Relations: a Jewish, Christian, and Muslim Triology at
Penn Law, Gittis 213
3501 Sansom Street, Philadelphia, PA 19104

Other Events You May Like

Eleventh Annual John F. Scarpia Conference on Law, Politics, and Culture
Villanova University Charles Widger School of Law

SiCHAd: Jeffrey Rosen & Honorable Abraham Gafni
Temple Beth Emet/Beth Israel, Philadelphia

Is the Constitution Judeo-Christian?
National Constitution Center, Philadelphia

A Tribute
Penn Law Stx

https://www.eventbrite.com/e/natural-law-and-interfaith-relations-a-jewi...